“CAVANAGH SERVICES GROUP COMPLETES HIGH PROFILE PROJECT FOR DOE AHEAD OF SCHEDULE”

February 19, 2009

Press Release:
Salt Lake City, Utah

Cavanagh Services Group, Inc. (Cavanagh) successfully completed the rail transportation and disposal of over 5,000 drums of Depleted Uranium Oxide (DUO) waste for the US Department of Energy (DOE) one month ahead of schedule. The project began in July 2008 and included the development of project plans, verification of waste characterization, development of all necessary waste profile documentation, and the management of waste disposal. The drums were transported from the DOE's Savannah River Site (SRS) to the EnergySolutions site.

“Cavanagh Services Group performed in an excellent manner in all aspects of the contract,” commented Dawn L. Gillas Program/Project Manager of Nuclear Materials Program Division, DOE/Savannah River. Ms. Gillas added, “I would use Cavanagh Services without hesitation for any work they are qualified to perform.” Cavanagh's Project Manager worked closely with Ms. Gillas along with other DOE personnel and other prime contractors to ensure cohesive project operations and eliminate project delays.

Cavanagh's project management team developed the loading plans and provided technical oversight of the loading of 52 gondola railcars at the SRS site in South Carolina. To further assure the safe transit of the DUO drums, Cavanagh coordinated with CSX Transportation and Union Pacific railroads in order to move the railcars as one unit train from South Carolina to Utah. The unit train concept reduced the transit time from 15 days to 6 days and permitted fewer switching moves along the chosen routes.

“This project was challenging, but our commitment to safety and quality coupled with innovative concepts allowed us to transport 5,408 DUO drums without any incident and well ahead of schedule,” commented Jeb Berg, Sr. Program Manager for Cavanagh Services Group.
